Opinions on furies and furry content

Furries are, generally speaking, people who have a specific interest in anthropomorphic beings - creatures with a mixture of human and animal traits (e.g. Lola Bunny; Scrooge McDuck).

Members of the furry fandom often create and consume visual art of anthropomorphic characters, and some also create anthropomorphic personas to represent themselves online, called 'fursonas'.

Some furries also create or commission fursuits - animal costumes similar to that of mascots - which they may wear at furry conventions, or for the sake of making photography and/or videos with it. Those who wear these costumes are called 'fursuiters'.

Furries often also express their interest in anthropomorphic beings through other means, such as literature, comics, games, memes, or by socializing with others furries online.

Below are some examples of fursuiters, and of some art created by furries.
